

HaloCatBowl

RFID Enabled Selective Access Pet Feeder

By Austin Small

HaloCatBowl is an RFID enabled selective access pet feeder that helps to regulate food intake in multi-animal households, where a dominant animal may consume the food or medicine intended for a sick, elderly, or subordinate pet in the household. The device only opens for the pet that is positively identified by its RFID tag, which is either worn as a collar or embedded under its skin.