

When _____ saw what PC Man had done, laughed. "I think you would be happier with two eyes EACH."

So _____ added two more eyes, and Tape Dispenser kindly offered more tape for arms.

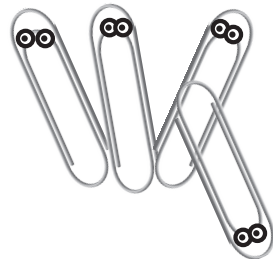

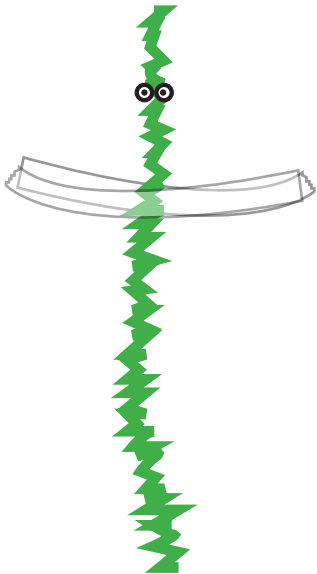

Then _____ put the pipe cleaner people into an envelope and mailed them to _____ _____ also put in this storybook, too.

And THAT was the end of the story.

PC Man

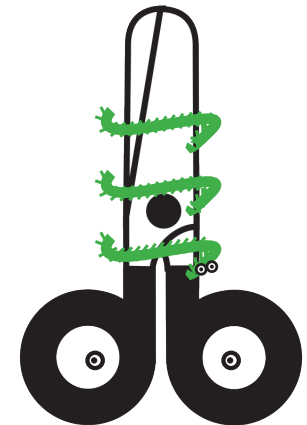

"Oh, yes!" replied the scissors.

"Some little children are coming to and I don't want them to use me. I want them to be safe."

So PC Man wrapped himself around the scissors. When the little children came to they did not try to use the scissors.

"Thank you!" cried the scissors as PC Man carefully unwrapped himself.

But PC Man did not give up easily.

He propped up the red pipe cleaner and gave it one of his eyes. Then he carefully removed one piece of tape and gave it to the red pipe cleaner.

© Grandma Van c/o Instructables.com
All illustrations except the pipe cleaners are from Openclipart.org

6

Next, PC Man came upon a tape dispenser.

“Hello!” said PC Man. “My name is PC Man. I am a pipe cleaner. PC stands for pipe cleaner.”

“Hello yourself,” answered the tape dispenser. “I am a tape dispenser.”

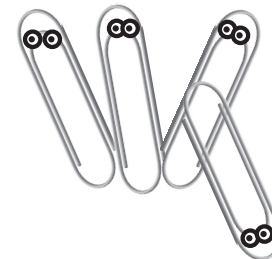

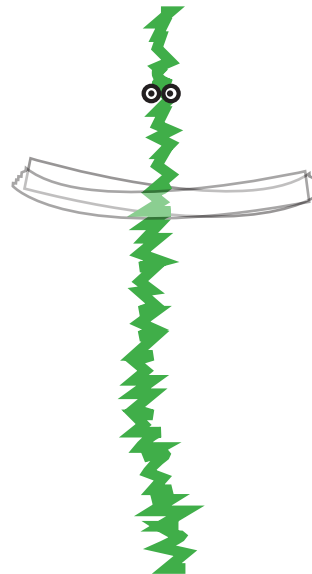

has never bothered to give me a name.”

So PC Man continued his journey through 11

He came upon a group of paper clips.

There, on the floor, he was quite excited to see a RED pipe cleaner.

It had no eyes.

It had no arms.

It did not say anything.

Once upon a time there was a little green pipe cleaner.

He glued some wiggle eyes on the pipe cleaner and called the new character "PC Man."

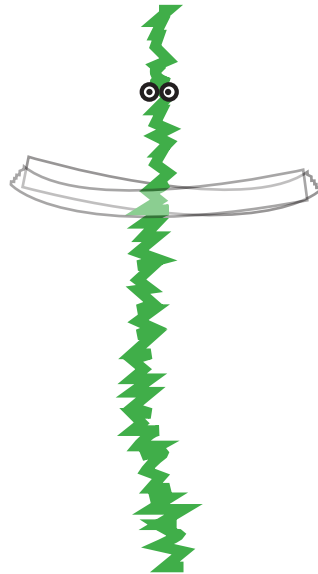

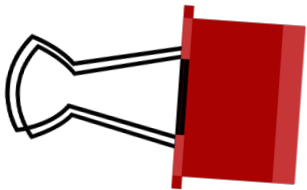

PC is short for Pipe Cleaner.

PC man was ready for an adventure.

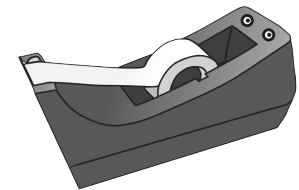

He looked around and he saw....

Next PC Man came upon a binder clip. The binder clip would not address PC Man. Perhaps it didn't see him because it didn't have any eyes.

"I am, however, a very talented tape dispenser," she continued. "For example, I could give you some arms if you really wanted them."

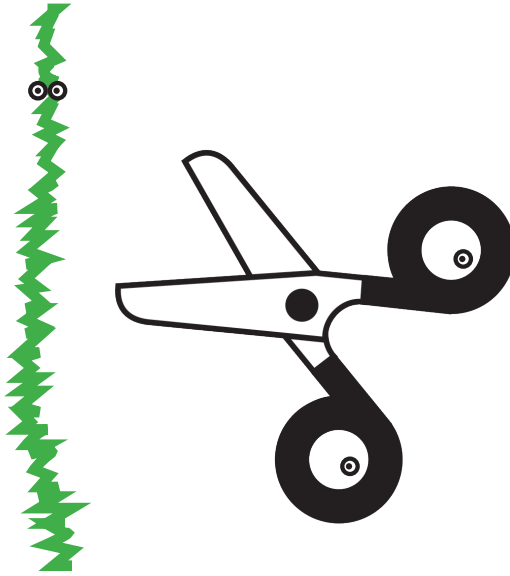

"That sounds delightful!" cried PC Man.

.... some scissors.

PC man came right up to the scissors and said, "Hello, Scissors. I am PC man. Is there anything that I can do to help you today?"

Before PC Man had a chance to greet the paper clips, they all began chattering at once.

"Can I help you?" asked the first.

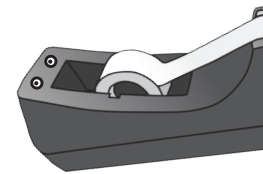

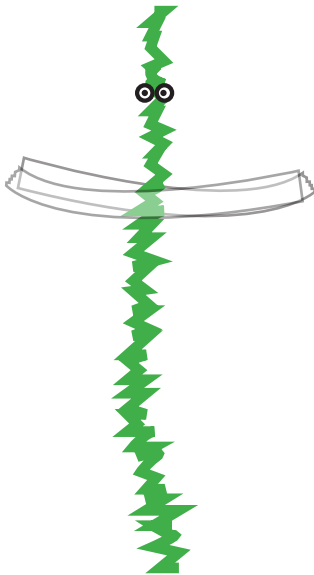

"What can I do for you today?" queried the second.

"I can show you a better way!" trumpeted the third.

"Let me do it for you!" cried the fourth.

The paper clips kept chattering and interrupting each other and PC Man could not get a word in edgewise. So he just smiled and went to another part of the room.

So Tape Dispenser gave PC Man some arms.

"Hurray!" cried PC Man. "Thank you very much!"

"You are most welcome," answered Tape Dispenser.

PC Man asked, "Is there anything that I can do for YOU today?"

"You have already helped me!" cried Tape Dispenser. "You gave me a chance to be creative. I LOVE to be creative."